Bhote Koshi River Rafting

Emerging from Tibet and further branching from Sun Kosi, Bhote Kosi River remains a favored for its fast-paced adventure and thrills of river rafting. This is the steepest river run in Nepal that provides a total white water experience. It is an adrenaline river with a lot of class 3-5 rapids. It is located 3 hours outside of Kathmandu and is a great day trip. It is also possible to spend a night on the river camp. Exceptional in its scenic beauty, Bhote Kosi offers numerous photographic moments and opportunities to visit unexplored archaeological sites and abandoned areas. Best time for rafting along this river is from October to December and From February to April.
